RECEPTIVE MOODMAY MAKE A DASH FOR GUBER-NATORIAL HONORS.BUT SENATORIAL BEE HUMSAnd the Music is Very Sweet To His Ears—Page To Oppose Cary in Congressional Race.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, September, 11.—Samuel A. Cook of Neenah is in a very receptive frame of mind with regard to becoming a candidate for higher office, governor of the state or United States senator. This is evident from a statement which he has just made publicly. It is a response to the call which a number of his supporters framed in Milwaukee last month, asking him to become a candidate for governor.

In his statement Cook does not say that he will become a candidate for governor and he does not say that he will not become a candidate. He does say that the position of United States senator appeals very strongly to him. Mr. Cook's letter is being discussed very generally by his friends. "To my mind," said one of them, "Cook makes it clear that he would prefer the United States senatorship if he could possibly get it."

"It is equally clear that if he thinks it can not be, he would be glad to run for governor, if developments indicate that there is any chance of his winning. He seems to think, too, that the organization which the men supporting him propose to form may take the place of the Republican party in the state."

"I judge that he is not unwilling to finance the new organization. It is evident to me," said another one, "that Cook has hope of getting 'PROGRESSIVE' support and that in any campaign which he may enter, he will try to make 'Tory' aid."

Mr. Cook's letter is addressed to George Griffith Thomas of Hurley, chairman of the committee which asked him to become a candidate for governor.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE
WITH A STOVE LEGServant Girl in Town of Rhine Beat Herself on Head With Implement and is in Serious Condition.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 11.—Miss Clara Hinkel, a domestic on a farm in the town of Rhine about ten miles from Cleveland, attempted to end her life Wednesday by beating out her brain with a stove leg. What caused her to commit the rash act is not known. She was brought to St. Nicholas hospital in this city where she lies in a critical condition. She was attended by Dr. J. H. Kinsley of this city and H. Reinhardt of Cleveland.

On Wednesday morning she stated that she was not feeling well and remained in her room. When she did not appear at dinner time a search was begun. She was found in the attic lying in a pool of blood. Her head lay on a blood-covered stove leg, with which she had beat herself.

A cut, an inch and a half in length, on the side of her head is believed to have been caused by the fall to the floor after she beat herself into insensibility.

Miss Hinkel, who is 34 years of age, refused to talk about her attempt to kill herself.

APPLETON FACTORY WILL BE ENLARGEDAddition Will Make Wire Works the Second Largest in the Whole World.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Appleton, Wis., Sept. 11.—Announcement was made today of a contemplated addition to be made to the plant of the Appleton Wire Works company in this city, and when this work is completed the Appleton plant will be the second largest of the kind in the world. William Buchanan, president of the company, has the distinction of organizing the companies now controlling the three largest wire works in the world, one being at Springfield, Mass., another at Holbrook, N. Y., and the other here. When fully equipped the local plant will contain fifty looms for the manufacture of wire screens for paper machines.

GARDNER WAS AHEAD OF EGAN IN FINALSNineteen-Year-Old Golfer Was Two
Up on Former Champion at End of Round This Morning.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Wheaton, Ill., Sept. 11.—At the end of the morning round of 18 holes in the final for the national amateur golf championship, Robert E. Gardner was two up on former national champion, H. Chandler Egan.

Weak and trembling from a severe attack of indigestion, Egan played the first nine holes in the poorest form he has displayed in the tournament, and had his nineteen-year-old opponent failed to take advantage of his opportunities the game would have been much more one-sided.

"Stars" Win: At Athletic Park this morning the Fourth Ward "Stars" put it all over the "Flowers" from the same ward by a score of 15 to 2. But-ter for the "Stars," Robert and Hiel; for the "Flowers," Schumacher and Hiel. Umpire, John Nolan.

of Entire Polar Region.

Christiania, Norway, Sept. 11.—Explorer Cook arrived here from Copenhagen aboard the steamer "Molechior" this morning. The municipal authorities boarded the vessel and the burgomaster delivered an address of welcome in which he congratulated the explorer on his achievement. Cook was then transferred to the steamer "Oscar II" which cleared port at noon for New York City.

Annexed the Territory.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—The Navy Department today received its first official notice from Peary that he had discovered the pole.

The State Department received a similar notice from the commander in which he added that in the name of the president of the United States he had taken possession of and annexed the entire region.

CREW AND DOCTORS
FIGHT ON STEAMERChairs, Knives and Beer Bottles
In Mid-Lake.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Appleton, Wis., Sept. 11.—News of a bloody fight on the steamer "City of South Haven," in which members of the crew and a couple of dozen Chicago doctors participated, came to light here today when Fred Klues, one of the combatants, displayed a severely cut face and told of the bloody affair, which occurred while the steamer was in mid-lake between Chicago and Grand Haven. Klues was a member of the crew and after the fight he was obliged to go to a hospital for two weeks' treatment. Klues declares the doctors and members of the crew became involved in an altercation over the alleged failure of a waiter to return the proper change to one of the passengers. Chairs, knives and beer bottles figured in the fight, which did not subside until the captain, armed with two revolvers, appeared on the scene. Several combatants, according to Klues, sustained fractured bones.

POLICE SEARCH FOR JEFFERSON SUSPECTL. C. Saxe Wanted in Jefferson For Tapping A Till, May Be in Janesville.

L. C. Saxe, who is said to be a canvasser for Lehigh's weekly, is wanted by the Jefferson police on the charge of robbing a till in that city yesterday afternoon, and Acting Chief of Police John Brown has been asked to look out for him as it is thought that he took a train to Janesville.

Chief Mulvihill, who called up over the long distance telephone last night, beyond giving a description of the man and stating that he had gotten away with between forty and fifty dollars, gave no further particulars of the robbery. Saxe is described as being five feet six or seven inches tall, weighs a light build and a greenish gray flat crowned hat, and wears spectacles part of the time.

A watch was on the train which arrives from the north at 8:15 but no one was found who corresponded to the description nor could any one be located at any of the hotels or lodging houses who in any way resembled the suspect.

MISSOURIANS HONOR
GEN. STERLING PRICECentenary Of Famous Rebel General Kept With Commemorative Exercises Throughout State.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 11.—The local camps of Confederate veterans throughout Missouri held exercises today to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gen. Sterling Price, the famous Confederate leader who has been termed the "Hero of Missouri." Though a Virginian by birth the career of Gen. Price was chiefly identified with this state. He was governor of Missouri from 1853 to 1857, and was president of the state convention, March 4, 1861.

During the first year of the civil war General Price was one of the principal aides of General Van Dorn and took part in all the chief conflicts fought in Missouri. When Van Dorn was ordered to Tennessee Gen. Price accompanied him, and took part in the engagements around Corinth. He retreated under Benoit to Tupelo, was assigned to the command of the Army of the West in March, 1862, and then to the District of Tennessee. He moved towards Nashville, and met and fought Gen. Sherman, in command of Grant's right wing, at luka, Sept. 19, 1862. He participated in Van Dorn's disastrous attack upon Corinth, and in the operation of Gen. Pemberton in northern Mississippi during the winter of 1862-1863. He was then ordered to the Trans-Mississippi department, and took part in the unsuccessful attack upon Helena, July 21, 1863.

Gen. Price was then ordered to the command of the District of Arkansas. He was driven from Little Rock by Gen. Steele, but successfully resisted Steele's advances toward Red River in 1864 and forced him to retreat. About the middle of September, 1864, Gen. Price and his little army began their memorable retreat into Missouri and Kansas.

It is said in praise of Gen. Price that when he started his famous campaign in the west he was without a dollar, without a wagon or team, without a cartridge or a bayonet-gun. When he commenced his retreat he had about 8,000 bayonet-guns, 50 pieces of cannon, 400 tents, and many other articles useful in an army, for which his men were almost exclusively indebted to their own strong arms in battle.

After the surrender of the Confederate armies, Gen. Price went to Mexico, but returned to Missouri in 1866, and died suddenly in this city, Sept. 29, 1867.

UNCLE JOE TO TALK
BEFORE THE BANKERSHouse Speaker, "Jim" Hill and Other
To Speak At Association Banquet
In Chicago.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Leading features of the American Bankers' association convention, which will assemble in Chicago Tuesday, will be James J. Hill and Lawrence O. Murray, controller of the currency. On Wednesday and Thursday Mexico will keep a double holiday in celebration of the 80th birthday of President Diaz and the anniversary of Mexican independence. The contest now on for the vice presidency of the republic has caused a feeling of deep unrest and fears are expressed in some quarters that the coming holidays may witness the beginning of a political revolution south of the Rio Grande.

Of interest to American readers will be the wedding of Miss Anita Stewart of New York and Prince Miguel of Braganza, son of the Portuguese pretender. The ceremony is to take place Wednesday at Tulloch Castle, the Dalmatian place in Scotland taken by the prospective bride's mother for the season.

A number of other events of interest will figure in the cable news of the week. In Sydney, Australia, delegates from Canada, South Africa, India and the United Kingdom will assemble for the seventh Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire.

The 150th anniversary of Wolfe's victory at Quebec will be celebrated with a great banquet in London Monday night. Another historical celebration which will be held in England during the week will be the observance of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Samuel Johnson, the famous scholar and writer. At Nancy, France, the international Aviation conference will open Saturday and continue in session six days. The war department of the United States will be officially represented at the congress by Lieut. Benjamin D. Pauls of the Signal Corps.

ANNUAL MARDI GRAS
AT AMUSEMENT PARKClosing Week At Cony Island To Be One Of High Festival and Carnival Fun.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Sept. 11.—Cony Island has completed arrangements for its annual Mardi Gras, which marks the end of the season at the famous resort of Gotham's pleasure-seekers. The big carnival will begin tomorrow night and will last all through the ensuing week. One of the new features this year will be general masking. The carnival procession will be over a mile long. More than 1,000 persons will march and 250 horses will draw the floats which will be crowded with pretty girls dressed as spirits, fairies, angels, soubrettes, coquettish ballet girls. Another feature will be an automobile parade with a thousand gorgeously decorated motor vehicles in line.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 11.—With a sermon appropriate to the occasion, a week's celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of the Dutch Reformed church here will be ushered in tomorrow. The church was founded in 1659, a little more than one year after the settlement of Kingston, which was originally called Esopus. For 250 years the church has had worship except for a few weeks during the occupation of the town by the British.

SENTENCE COMMUTED
BY PRESIDENT TAFTDennison Postoffice Thief Will Not Serve Two Sentences For One Offense.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Because he had already served a sentence imposed by the state court for the same offense, Earl C. Johnson, convicted of burglary from the post-office at Dennison, Ia., and sentenced to three years' imprisonment and a fine of $500, has had his term commuted to one year's actual imprisonment. The President's action was on the ground that it was not just to require him to serve two sentences for the same crime.

TAFT STARTS ON LONG TRIP SOONPRESIDENT LEAVES ON TOUR OF COUNTRY WEDNESDAY
MORNING.MANY NOTABLE FEATURESWill Visit All Four Coasts, Cover Thirty-Five States and Territories
and Will Meet Mexican Ruler.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Facts and Figures Of the President's Tour.
Starts from Boston at ten o'clock Wednesday morning, Sept. 15.
Total mileage to be covered is 32,759, of which 1165 will be made by boat down the Mississippi River.
Tour will cover eight weeks, or fifty-six days.
Thirty-five States and Territories will be visited.
Fifty-five cities are scheduled upon the itinerary as regular stops.
Will touch all of the four coasts, and will twice cross each of the great time belts, neither his watch nor eight times.
Highest point where a stop will be made is the rim of the Grand Canon, 6900 feet above the sea level.
Lowest point to be visited is New Orleans, which is but five feet above sea level.
Most notable feature of the tour will be the meeting with the President of Mexico at El Paso, October 16.
Tour will end at Washington, D. C., at 5:35 P. M., November 10.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 11.—Never did soldiers march with prouder step than did the two thousand Grand Army veterans of Beverly and vicinity as they paraded through the village streets today and were reviewed by President Taft. Each and every one of the gray-haired veterans felt grateful to the President, for they knew that in consenting to review their little parade he had violated his vow not to participate in any public event during his stay here on vacation.

But three days remain of the President's vacation, and they promise to be exceedingly busy days. Experienced "ghost-trotter" though he is, the President finds that like a girl leaving home for the first time he is apt to become a bit flustered on the eve of departure on a 13,000 mile trip. The President is looking forward to the beginning of the trip with mixed emotions. He is anxious to visit the various places included in his itinerary. He is never happier than when traveling, but at the same time he has expressed himself as very sorry that his vacation days are so soon to end.

Tuesday morning Mr. Taft will bid adieu to Beverly. He will probably motor into Boston from his summer cottage here. Tuesday night he will be the guest of honor at the banquet of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The following morning at ten o'clock he will start on his long journey back to Washington, a journey that will carry him through thirty-five states and territories of the Union. The first stop will be Chicago, where he will speak at a banquet Thursday night. From Chicago he will journey through the Northwest, making stops at nearly all the principal cities.

During his tour the President will traverse the Royal Gorge of the Rocky Mountains, will visit the Seattle exposition, will spend three days in the Yosemite Valley, will stop off at the Grand Canon of the Colorado, will spend two days with his sister in Los Angeles, will greet the President of Mexico at El Paso, will take a four days' sail down the Mississippi, from St. Louis to New Orleans, with various stops en route, and will spend four days on the ranch of his brother, Charles P. Taft, near Corpus Christi, Texas. Leaving New Orleans on November 1, the return to Washington will be made by way of Jackson, Miss., Columbus, Miss., Birmingham, Ala., Macon, Savannah, Charleston, Augusta, Columbia, Wilmington and Richmond, arriving home on the evening of November 10.

The President will be accompanied throughout the trip by Captain Archibald W. Butt, military aide; Wendell W. Mitchell, assistant secretary; Dr. J. J. Richardson, of Washington, D. C.; James Sloan, Jr., and L. C. Goodhart, of the secret service; and Major Arthur Brooks, the President's confidential messenger. Six newspaper men will make the trip, and for short distances the President will have for company numerous governors, United States senators and other men in public life.

Throughout the entire journey President Taft will be in touch with the White House by means of special wires which the head of the executive telegraph department has arranged for. These special wires will be established in zones, and as soon as the President's train passes from one of these to another the loops into the telegraph room at the White House will be rearranged.

BIG COLORADO INTER-STATE FAIR IS OPENED IN DENVER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

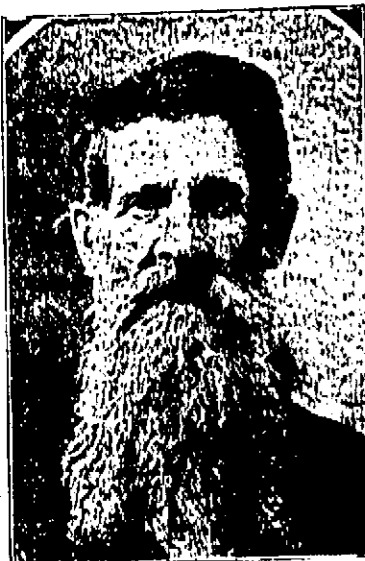

Denver, Colo., Sept. 11.—Many visitors are arriving in Denver for the Colorado Interstate fair, which will be in progress here during the coming week. The fair this year promises to surpass all its predecessors in the number, variety and high class of its exhibits. The display of live stock, fruits and agricultural products is especially notable. Many attractive features have been prepared by the management for the entertainment of the visitors.

THIRD REGIMENT TO-HOLD REUNION

"HAMILTON'S BADGER BOYS" MEET NEXT THURSDAY AND FRIDAY.

SERVED THROUGHOUT WAR

And Took Part in Many of the Important Engagements, Marching With Sherman to the Sea.
Next Thursday and Friday, September 16 and 17, the nineteenth annual reunion of the Third Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry association, composed of members of the Third Wisconsin regiment, which went out from this state in 1861 and served throughout the entire Civil War, will be held in this city at the post hall of the G. A. R. There are now about

MAND OF THIRD WISCONSIN REGIMENT.

one hundred surviving members of the regiment located in various parts of the country. Of these but the smaller portion, owing to sickness or physical disability on the part of the majority, will be able to attend, so that but thirty-five or forty, which is the average attendance, are expected to be present. As is usual at the reunions, a splendid program will be given each day. Thursday night there will be the regimental love-fest, for members of the association only, and on Friday night there will be a public meeting in the East Side Odd Fellows Hall. Besides the regimental speakers, Mrs. J. B. Day and Prof. Buell of the high school, will take part in the program. The regiment always holds its reunion on, or as near as possible to Antietam Day, September 17. This year the second day of the reunion comes on that date.
One of the sessions will be given over to special exercises in celebration of the great battle in which the veterans took part.

The regiment, well-known throughout the Civil War as "Hamilton's Badger Boys," was organized at Fond du Lac, June 29, 1861, and served in many of the important engagements of the long struggle. From the beginning until the end of the strife they were engaged in almost continual fighting. At the beginning they took part in the engagements in the Shenandoah Valley, fought against Lee in the battle of Gettysburg, marched with the forces of Sherman "from Atlanta to the sea," and took part in a number of minor conflicts. Just a couple of months after the regiment was organized they participated in the arrest of the Maryland legislature at Frederick, September 18, 1861. In 1863 they were in New York and helped to quell the famous draft riots there in August of that year. They marched in the Grand Review at Washington, May 25, 1865, were mustered out of service at Louisville, July 18, of the same year and disbanded at Madison, Col. Hamilton, their first leader, was transferred shortly after he had taken charge of them, and Lieut. Col. Thomas S. Ruger, afterward made a major-general, who died in this city three years ago, took his place. On Col. Ruger's advancement

PAULINE CHASE TO BE ADOPTED
BY JAMES W. BARRIE.

At last the "Pink Pajama Girl" is to be adopted. If the latest London reports are true.

She's a rather lively "child," being very near the 30 mark, and her father is to be none other than James W.
Barrie, author of "The Little Minister" and "Peter Pan."

The "child" is Pauline Chase, the American girl who jumped into fame
because she once ran across the stage in her bare feet and clad in a suit of pajamas.

Nowadays Miss Chase has become very sedate and dignified, and if anyone says "pajamas" to her she is scheduled for a very strenuous objection. Besides that she now moves among the topnotchers of London's best society and no derby meet or school race is complete without the presence of the American actress, surrounded by a perfect sea of "younger sons."

Miss Chase began her stage career as a simple chorus girl and she had the usual ups and downs of the rest of them. It was a 75-cent room for her on one-night stands then.

One day Pauline happened into a bookings agent's office on the contract day.

"They had almost all the girls— all but one. And so, without much questioning, they took Pauline Chase."
Then came the trying-on of the costumes. They were the usual thing, but in the second act there was a scene in the interior of a boarding school girls' room. It was night time, the girls were "going to sleep and there, and then they set a new style. They wore pajamas, just like the moon. Only the pajamas had lovely ribbons and frills all over them to show that there were really girls inside.

The "pink pajamas" became the rage of the day, and when Chase, in the play, sat down at the piano and began playing it became "at once the sensation of the stage world."

And that was her start to fortune.
She then went to London and began playing all kinds of parts. For who really had talent.

And now Pauline Chase is so haughty and so very dignified that it almost seems like a sacrifice to try to remember her as she sat on the piano stool dressed in pink pajamas.

The biggest thing she has done as yet is to play the leading part in
"Peter Pan" while Miss Maude Adams delighted thousands in America with her wonderful art in the same play.
Miss Chase became the rage of London, and all society, all the gentry,
and even royalty flocked to see her.

J. M. Barrie, the author was delighted. He knew that without the charming little actress his piece might have been a dismal failure. She was the very embodiment of the little fairy-believing boy, Peter Pan, and her success was remarkable.

From that day dates a strong friendship between the great author and the actress.

She was alone in London, struggling girl. Despite his great success
Mr. Barrie and his wife had never been really happy, for they had no children. Then it occurred to the romantic author that the next best thing would be to adopt a little baby and make it one of the family. But this adopting business, reasoned by Mr. Barrie, has a serious drawback, as one can never tell how the child is going to turn out.

The best way he thought, would be to get a grown-up child and adopt it.
The nearest approach to a grown-up child the Barries knew was Pauline Chase. Although really a grown-up she played Peter Pan so admirably that it was easy to imagine her a child.

So they broached the subject to Miss Chase, and she favored the idea. She wanted parents, and they wanted a child. And by the adoption plan, all three will get their heart's desire.

Although no official announcement has yet been made, it is certain that before long Miss Chase will be known as Miss Pauline-Barrie, and Mr.
Barrie will be enabled to introduce a very handsome young woman as "Miss Pauline," the youngest and eldest daughter."

Special Club Cabinet in your kitchen : : :

Twenty-five Cabinets to be Distributed at once

McDougall Kitchen Cabinets in the past few years have revolutionized kitchen work. They have practically taken away the drudgery and reduced it to a house-hold science. Most every housewife realizes what a wonderful change it would make in her life to have her kitchen work cut squarely in two. To use a McDougall Cabinet means you do only about half as much work in the kitchen. It saves time, energy and thousands of useless steps.

We know that there is not a single housekeeper in this locality who would hesitate to spend a few cents each day to get a McDougall Cabinet
if she could buy it that way.

Now we have outlined a plan for distributing these cabinets so that you can have one and never miss its cost. These cabinets have more conveniences than you ever dreamed of. After you have once used a Mc-Dougall, you will wonder how you ever did without it.

The McDougall Club Plan

We are now forming a McDougall Kitchen Cabinet Club and by joining it you can select any McDougall Cabinet you want. We deliver it to your home and you can use the cabinet while paying for it on the Club Terms.
This means only a few cents a day. The terms are so easy you will never miss its cost. You have long wanted a cabinet—now here is your chance.
You can hardly ask for a more liberal plan.

Special McDougall Features

Among the many Special Features of Mc-Dougall Cabinets are the following:

- Glass Cereal and Spice Jars—aluminum screw top lids.
- Glass Jars for Tea and Coffee.
- Glass Front Flour Bin.
- Funnel Mouthed Flour Sifter.
- Full Sliding Aluminum Table Top.
- White Enamel Linings.
- White Enamel Glass Front Flour Bin.
- Attractive Cottage Casement Doors.
- Double Shelf China Closet.
- Self-feeding Sugar Bin.
- Metal Bread and Cake Drawer.
- Recipe Card Index Outfit.
- Utensil Cupboard with Sliding Shelf.
- Door Racks for pans, lids and packages.
- Divided Cutlery Drawer.
- Linen Drawer, etc., etc.

Look for the McDougall Name plate on each cabinet, and buy no cabinet that does not bear the name, "McDougall"

The Heart of the Home is a McDougall Kitchen Cabinet

Study well the picture below—see how conveniently everything can be arranged in the McDougall Cabinet. Note how you can stand in front of the cabinet and reach every article needed for the preparation of a meal. See how there is a quickly accessible and convenient place for every article and food supply and how, when the cabinet is closed, everything is dust-proof and dirt-proof. Think how much easier your work would be with this cabinet in your kitchen.

Remember, the genuine McDougall Cabinet costs you no more than the inferior imitations. Whether you are ready to buy a kitchen cabinet or not, you are urged to investigate this great offer and to see our complete display of McDougall Kitchen Cabinets.

Portfolio of $1,000 Prize Kitchens Free this week

If you will call this week, we'll be glad to present you a copy of this portfolio without cost.

These Kitchens were designed by the greatest architects in the country and cost McDougall over $2,000.00, a cash prize of $1,000.00 being paid for the best kitchen.

They show you how you can arrange, equip and decorate your kitchen, and at no extra cost, so that it will rival any other room in the house in attractiveness and comfort.

Special-Free-This Week

To every housewife who visits our McDougall display this week, we will present a membership certificate entitling her to the easy Club Terms of payment and credit for $1.00 on the price of a McDougall Cabinet—an actual saving of $1.00.

Don't fail to get this membership certificate.

The value of the McDougall Cabinet lies in its substantial construction, its perfection of arrangement and its many, many labor-saving devices. Do not be misled by the imitations which other dealers will offer you—they won't stand comparison with the McDougall.

Look at cabinets at any other store in town if you wish and then come and see the McDougall and judge for yourself. You will find that the McDougall is better in every way and far more economical.

We will gladly show you all these new patterns and their conveniences. If you ever intend to buy a Kitchen Cabinet, this is your greatest opportunity. Remember, the Club Terms are so easy that you'll always be glad you joined.

ARE WAITING FOR COMMANDER PEARY

WIFE AND HERBERT L. BRIDGMAN
AT SYDNEY TO GREET EXPLORER.

HE MAY ARRIVE ON MONDAY

Steamer Roosevelt Will Not Enter
New York Naval Parade If Cook's Ship Does—Captain Declares
Peary Did Take Cook's Supplies.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 11.—In the event that Commander Peary sails from the harbor, Labrador, this evening as expected, he probably will not reach here before Monday or Tuesday. Much will depend on the weather conditions in the Strait of Belle Isle and on the state of the vessel's machinery. Mrs. Peary has arrived and is anxiously awaiting the coming of her husband, Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Arctic club, also will greet the explorer.

Mr. Bridgman has received many telegrams offering Commander Peary large sums of money for magazine articles, books, lectures, etc. "One magazine tells the explorer to name his own price," Secretary Gilbert H. Grosvener is arranging for Commander Peary to give his first lecture before the National Geographical society in Washington.

Roosevelt in Parade.

Mr. Bridgman sent the following dispatch to the Hudson-Fulton commission:

"The Peary Arctic club applies for a position for its steamer Roosevelt, with the north pole, in the centennial parade."

A reply was soon received saying the commission would be glad to have the Roosevelt in the parade. Questioned concerning the report that the yacht John H. Bradley, which conveyed Dr. Cook to Greenland, would be in the parade, Mr. Bridgman said it had been sold but of course it could be entered by its owners. He declared, however, that if the Cook yacht was given a place in the parade, the Roosevelt certainly would not participate.

"This is my eighth visit to Sydney in connection with my husband's polar expeditions, and I am overjoyed at his success in reaching the arctic center," said Mrs. Peary, as she and her two children stepped off the train here.

Mrs. Peary said she thought her husband now ought to be satisfied and stay at home and get acquainted with his family. "He used to say," she continued, "that a man should not go to the arctic region after he was 40 years of age, but the discovery of the pole was the only thing he had not succeeded in, and he would not discontinue his efforts at the age limit he himself set. On May 5 last Commander Peary was 53.

Will Go to Washington.

"His stay in Sydney will be very brief. Being an officer of the United States navy he must report without delay at Washington and he likely will go there direct, with the possible exception of one day's rest at his summer home on Eagle Island, Casco Bay, Me."

Mrs. Peary's animated and happy appearance bore witness to the pride and satisfaction she felt over her husband's triumph. On the several former occasions when Mrs. Peary came to Sydney to meet her husband she was alone.

Commander Peary's married life has been closely identified with his hazardous enterprises, which explains the emotion which prompted him in the hour of the triumph of his life's work to send the first announcement, "Have made good at last," to Mrs. Peary at their summer home in Maine. Later the commander wired his wife to come and meet him at Sydney, adding: "Bring the kids." The "kids" are Marie, aged 16, who was born in Greenland, and Robert E., Jr., aged six. Tomorrow is Marie's birthday and she is hoping that the arrival of the Roosevelt with her father on board will not be delayed beyond that date.

Welcome in New York.

New York, Sept. 11.—Further plans for the welcome of Dr. Cook were taken up in New York. Among the societies which intend to take part in the city's greeting to the Brooklyn explorer, the Delaware Valley society, composed of native sons of three counties in southeastern New York, announced that it hoped to have "its most distinguished member, Dr. Cook, as its guest of honor and principal speaker at a banquet of welcome shortly after his arrival in New York."

A cablegram was sent to Copenhagen asking the explorer to name the date. Meanwhile Dr. Cook's friends in Brooklyn are completing their plans to make his welcome to that borough commensurate with the peculiar honors he has conferred upon it. Several thousand dollars have already been raised. Near the explorer's house on Bushwick avenue a triumphal arch of flowers will be placed, and there will be a parade, a lecture, an informal reception and a banquet. A committee of 100 prominent Brooklynites will be appointed to take charge of the affair, at a mass meeting to be held on Monday.

Friends of Mrs. Cook announced in Brooklyn that she desired to remain in seclusion until her husband's arrival in the United States. The news of Dr. Cook's success, it was said, has completely overwhelmed her, and the added strain put upon her by the controversy which Commander Peary's challenge has brought about has resulted in almost complete prostration.

Peary to Arrive First.

It is now believed that Peary will reach New York about one week in advance of Dr. Cook. Therefore the Peary Arctic club's explorer is expected

COOK TO SEE PEARY; HOMeward BOUND

SAILS FROM DENMARK TO FACE
COMMANDER WHO CALLS HIM
IMPOSTER.

TO ARRIVE SEPTEMBER 21

"Envy and Jealousy Are Doing Their Work But We Believe in You Absolutely," Is Danish Admiral's Farewell to Doctor.

Christiansand, Sept. 11.—When Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who sailed today, arrives in New York one week from next Tuesday, he will meet Commander Robert E. Peary face to face and demand that he prove at once his claim that Cook did not find the north pole. It is believed here that there will be a stormy session when the two daring explorers meet, as, whatever else may be said about them, neither is a coward.

Dr. Cook left Copenhagen yesterday afternoon on the first stage of his journey homeward, apparently happy and confident—and with the cheers of a great crowd ringing in his ears. Formal farewells were exchanged between Dr. Cook and committees of the Geographical society and the University of Copenhagen.

Cheered by Great Crowd.

As he departed the explorer stood alone on the high bridge of the yacht Melchior, which brought him to Christiansand, raising his hat in response to the shouts of a great crowd.

The yacht arrived at Christiansand at noon and the steamship Oscar II. was ready to take up anchor and steam for the United States as soon as Dr. Cook was transferred to her deck.

Managing Director Cold of the Scandinavian-American Steamship Company, accompanied Dr. Cook. He said the Oscar II. will reach New York Tuesday, September 21.

Before the gangplank of the Melchior was drawn up at Copenhagen there was a pleasant ceremony in the cabin which was attended by Maurice P. Egan, the American minister, and Miles Egan, the rector of the University of Copenhagen and a number of geographers. Admiral Dokkesholm, in a speech, thanked Dr. Cook for returning to the United States under the Danish flag.

Admiral's Words of Cheer.

"Green-eyed envy and jealousy," "Green-eyed envy and jealousy," "are doing their evil work, but we in Denmark believe in you absolutely."

"I want to thank you," said Dr. Cook in reply, "for the great honor that is mine in going home on a Danish steamer. Since I cannot reach home on an American steamer or an expedition vessel, it is fitting that I should go on a steamer of the land which has given me such happy days. You have made my return so happy that the tortures of the past are forgotten. You have been my friends; you have fought my battles. With a St. John's, N. F., Sept. 11.—Capt. Moses Bartlett of Briggs, who commanded Dr. Cook's schooner, John H. Bradley, which was fitted out at Gloucester, Mass., in 1907, issued a public statement as follows:

"Dr. Cook is correct in stating that Peary took his provisions after the steamer Erik returned to Briggs last fall. Three of her crew who belonged to Briggs told me that when Peary arrived at Etah that summer he took possession of all the stores I had left there the previous fall for Cook, against his return from the north. These men say they helped to move the stuff from where I left it.

"This supply consisted of two dory loads of stores, food and kerosene which our crew piled on the bench, and then placed the dories over, bottom up, piling stones around and above them to make a cache. At Annatok, 30 miles north, where Cook landed, I had previously put ashore two years' supplies for Cook and five tons of hard coal. Our vessel, the John H. Bradley, was laden with stores and ten tons of hard coal. When Cook landed we gave him half the coal and the stores except what we required to bring us home. Cook could not steal Peary's provisions because Peary had none on any part of the coast, having used up all the provisions left there by previous expeditions in his 1905-06 trip."

Richard Pike, chief engineer of the steamer Erik, which served as an auxiliary vessel for Commander Peary last year by conveying stores and coal to Etah to supplement those on the Roosevelt, said that Peary did not take Cook's provisions nor were they put on board of Peary's ship.

Need Not Deliver Mail Where Vicious Animals Are Kept.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Mail carriers are not required to deliver mail at residences where vicious dogs are permitted to run at large. As a protection to mail carriers, the following regulation has been adopted by the post office department:

"Carriers are not required to deliver mail at residences where vicious dogs are permitted to run at large. Persons keeping such dogs must call at the post office for their mail."

Report on Grain Exports.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Double the amount of corn was exported from the United States in August over that month a year ago, while less than one-half the amount of wheat and a little more than one-half the amount of wheat flour was exported.

Funeral of Gen. Corbin.

Washington, Sept. 11.—With military honors befitting his rank as lieutenant general of the armies of the United States the funeral of Henry C. Corbin, who died in New York last Wednesday morning, took place in this city.

full heart I say farewell to the people of Denmark."

To the press Dr. Cook said:

"I am perfectly willing to put my records before the American coast and geodetic survey to be compared with those of Commander Peary, but I do not see why I should ask for such a comparison first."

Asked if he had any message for the public, Cook replied:

"Don't you think that would be rather presumptuous? All I want is to get home to my wife and children and to finish my work."

HELD IN GIRL MURDER CASE.

Dr. G. A. Fritch, Under Bond at Detroit, Denies Charge.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—On the request of Prosecuting Attorney Van Zile of Wayne county the inquest at Ford City into the death of Miss Maybelle Millman of Ann Arbor has been postponed until September 24.

The continuance of the coroner's inquiry followed the remanding of Dr. George A. Fritch to the Metropolitan police in bonds of $10,000. Dr. Fritch still is held on suspicion of murder in connection with the Millman case.

"I remember that Miss Henning came to my office accompanied by another young woman about two weeks ago," said Dr. Fritch. "I suppose that Miss Henning's companion was Miss Millman. She sought an appointment for a physical examination. I told her that I could attend her at once, but she replied that she would return later. I never saw her again."

St. Joseph's Chief Resigns.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 11.—Chief of Police J. J. McNamara, who has been on the police force 16 years, has resigned. Chief McNamara, a Democrat, was appointed only a few months ago by the present Republican police board. It is stated that the resignation of other Democrats will be forthcoming within the next few days. Charles H. Haskell of the United States marshal's office here is slated to succeed McNamara.

Lord, Kitchenier Field Marshal.

London, Sept. 11.—Lord Kitchenier, who recently succeeded the duke of Connaught as inspector general of the Mediterranean forces, has been made a field marshal of the British army.

Hot Weather in Oklahoma.

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 11.—The government thermometer registered 112 degrees, breaking all September records.

Elect Kavanaugh and Jones.

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the Lake-to-the-Gulf Waterways association, was elected chairman and M. L. Jones of Kansas City was elected vice-president of the Missouri Waterway commission at a meeting of the commission here.

EVENING CLASSES

—AT THE—

SOUTHERN WISCONSIN BUSINESS COLLEGE

OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, AT 7:30

Did you ever stop to think that the successful man or woman in this age is not the man or woman who has the greatest amount of brains, or the keenest intellect, but the man who is a worker and works along lines that have made our present great men successful. These men have first trained their minds for business. If you want to improve your present position qualify yourself by turning to account your spare moments in acquiring a PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

This school is a business school; it knows the principles of successful business and how to prepare young people to be successful. Some of our best young people desire, to be successful, but being at work all day, they have not the opportunity presented by our day sessions.

"Individualistic" Fall Apparel

Style must not alone consist of newness—there must be improvement on the best that has gone before. Our new lines are more exclusive, more practical, have more "individual character" than any heretofore assembled.

We strive each season—every day—to give you something different, something better, for the money. We invite you to inspect and judge how well we have succeeded.

Our connections with large manufacturing centers of ready-to-wear garments enables us to be in constant touch with the new creations as fast as they appear in the market. In addition we receive reports twice each week of the new things in all lines as fast as they appear in New York. This reporting agency makes a specialty of ready-to-wear garments and gives pen and ink illustrations and minute descriptions of suits, coats, skirts, etc., as they appear. This is a valuable service and keeps our stock up to the minute.

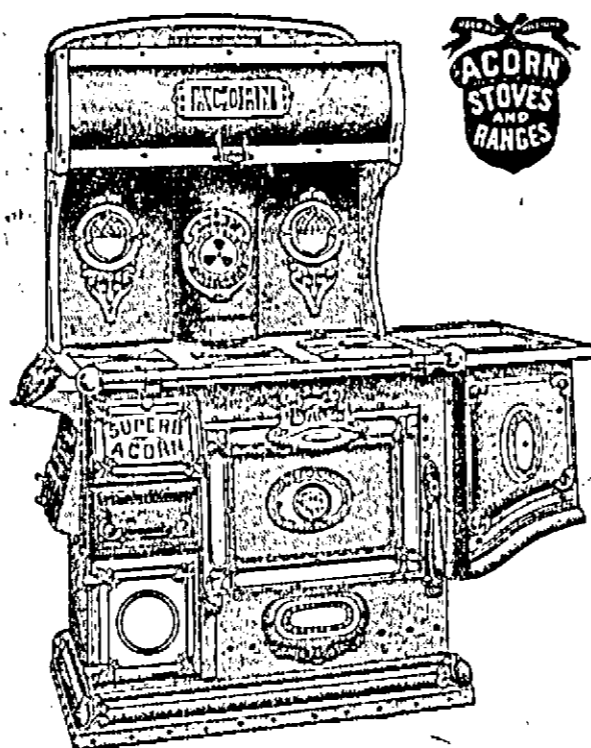

A great many merchants in going to New York feel that they have devoted considerable time to it when they put in from a half a day to a day visiting the retail stores before buying at wholesale. The New York reporting agency that we are connected with have expert merchandise men and expert shoppers with years of experience who do nothing else but visit the large retail stores of New York daily throughout the year and we get the best information that they can gather twice each week, which amounts to even more than a personal visit, even if we made them often, as these men have an inside pull and gather information that the outside merchant can never get. If you want to be informed as to the correct style, but not the extremely faddy things which last but a short time, visit THE BIG STORE.

We have done a very satisfactory business so far in the ready-to-wear garments and have been several weeks ahead of the procession in showing the new things. If you want suits, coats or furs, we have them for you.

Our price range on suits is from $15 to $50, which means suits made of good materials that will give satisfaction.

Winter coats at almost any price you care to pay.

The Way to Happiness.

To look fearfully upon life; to accept the laws of nature, not with meek resignation, but as her sons, who dare to search and question; to have peace and confidence within our souls—these are the beliefs that make for happiness.—Motherline.

BUS FOR WORKERS AT STONE CRUSHER?

Supt. W. E. Dullin is 'Sorely Perplexed Over Problem of Keeping Men at Work There.'

W. E. Dullin, who has been placed in charge of the stone crusher at the quarry by the city council, and whose spirit has been sorely tried by the difficulties he has experienced in securing competent employees, has expressed his intention of appealing to the council for aid in making the work more attractive, in this way securing better men and making it worth while for those who are now working to stay "on the job."

The fact that the quarry is situated outside the city limits and that the men are compelled to walk some of the several miles, in order to get to work, has made good labor very scarce, an laborer find it very easy to secure more attractive work. The occupation is not overly easy, and after the men have spent half or three quarters of an hour on the road they are not in the best condition to begin their duties in the morning nor in a happy mood to contemplate the long tramp to town after they have put in ten hours. Unfortunately, the men so far, have shown a full share of human fallibility and the Labor Day celebration cut the pay roll flat down considerably.

Mr. Dullin is of the opinion that if provision were made for a team and wagon to meet the employees some place in the city and carry them to the quarry, it would be easier to secure help and at the same time increase the output, for the men would then spend their full energy on their work and not on the road. The question of providing for such a conveyance will undoubtedly be brought before the council in the near future. Supplies of crushed stone for the macadamizing of High and Madison streets were cut off yesterday afternoon when the inspector on the engine refused to work. However, enough number one crushed stone was on hand to supply the teamsters, but the supplies of two and three were exhausted. The engine was repaired this morning and the work again started.

REV. R. M. VAUGHAN HERE FOR A VISIT

And Will Occupy His Old Pulpit at Baptist Church Tomorrow—Is on His Way to Berkeley, Cal.

Rev. Richard M. Vaughan, former pastor of the Janesville Baptist church, and who has arrived here for a short visit and are guests at the home of Miss Mary Crosby on South Jackson street. The Rev. Mr. Vaughan has been engaged in advanced study at the University of Chicago during the past summer and is now on his way to Berkeley, Cal., where he is to begin his new duties as pastor of the First Baptist church about October 1. His many friends in and outside of the congregation will be interested in the announcement that he is to occupy his old pulpit tomorrow morning.

SENIOR LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEAGION WILL MEET MONDAY

Social Session Will Be Held in Sunday School Rooms of Baptist Church—Young People Invited.

The Janesville Senior L. T. L. society will hold a social meeting in the Sunday school rooms of the Baptist church Monday evening, Sept. 13, beginning at 7:30. A program will be rendered and refreshments will be served. This organization started a year ago with a membership of forty and has done much good work in the city. It is composed of young men and women over 15 years of age, whose object is to do all in their power to eliminate the liquor habit. The boys and girls succeeded in having the state convention of their order last July and citizens were given an opportunity of listening to well delivered addresses in regard to the work. The society is anxious to have all boys and girls over 15 join. All are invited to the meeting Monday evening. It is not a class organization and all are welcome.

The work of the society will be carried forward with renewed vigor during the coming year so as to bring about greater results. Miss Edna Hager is president of the society and will gladly answer any question about the work of the organization.

WEDDING SERVICE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Account of the Dalton-Kimball Nuptials Which Occurred Last Tuesday Evening.

The Indianapolis News of Wednesday, Sept. 8, contained a lengthy account of the wedding of Miss Natalie Dalton and Frank William Kimball of this city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ford Dalton, in Woodruff place, last Tuesday evening and from this account the following excerpts were taken:

"The ceremony took place in the long drawing room which had been converted into a bower of smiles, ferns, palms, asparagus ferns, and phloxes. Eight friends of the bride, Miss Corlino Robinson, Miss Lila Kuriz, Miss Anna Stewart, Miss Ruth Maxwell, Miss Katherine Layman, of this city, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid Stricker of Chicago, Mrs. Henry Bernard Deucher of Sacramento, Cal., and Miss Eustacia Kimball of Janesville, Wis., wearing white lingerie gowns, formed an aisle for the bride party. Miss Elizabeth Hughes of this city and Miss Natalie Dalton Johnson of Milwaukee, a namesake of the bride, carried the ribbons. The bride attended by her sister, Mrs. John Hackett Adams of Milwaukee, matron of honor, and the little flower maid, Alice Kimball, a niece of the bridegroom.

"The bride entered alone and was met by Mr. Kimball and his best man, Louis Ruppel of Fond du Lac, Wis., and the minister, the Rev. James D. Stanley, rector of Christ church. As the services were read by Mr. Stanley, the musicians played the song from 'Tristan and Isolde'.

"The bride wore an exquisite gown of white chiffon, with a rose point lace cape, an heirloom in the family, and a veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower of Illinois-of-the-valley tied with tulle. Her wedding gift to her mother, and a robe of pearls, the gift of Mr. Kimball. Mrs. Adams wore a gown of Italian lace, over pink, trimmed with a shower of pink chiffon ruffles. Her bouquet was of pink asters. The little flower maid wore a French dress of white, with pink ribbons, and carried a white basket of baby asters and lilies of the valley.

"The wedding colors were of pink and white, and the several rooms were adorned with multicolored forms, amid which the flowers were arranged. Asparagus palms in the corners of the rooms, in one room the bride party and a number of intimate friends were seated at the supper following the ceremony, and congratulations, and the other guests were in the several other rooms.

"Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dexter Kimball of Janesville, the parents of the bridegroom, who received with Mr. and Mrs. Dalton and the bride party; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bernard Deucher of Sacramento, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. John Hackett Adams and Miss Margaret Johnson of Milwaukee, George Kimball of Janesville, Wis., Mrs. Bertha Frost of Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid Stricker of Chicago, Mrs. Louis Ruppel of Fond du Lac, and Mrs. A. A. Abbott of Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. Henry Shotton and Mrs. Anna Shotton of Vincennes.

TESTIMONIAL FROM PHONE OPERATORS

Richard Valentine Was Presented with a Token This Morning for Fight Against Corruption.

Richard Valentine was this morning escorted to the Rock County Telephone exchange and presented by the operators with a handsome scarf pin of jade, beautifully mounted in gold and accompanied by the following greeting and explanation:

"In appreciation of your successful efforts in defeating the sale of the Rock County Telephone Company to its business competitor, we telephone operators desire to express to you our thanks and ask you to accept this little token as further evidence of our esteem."

"The twenty-five signers were: the Misses Tillie Doherty, Jessie Porter, Agnes Elliott, Floy Babcock, Minnie Abendroth, Anna Kelley, Kittle McCarthy, Grace Dudley, Armita Beck, Agnes Corneau, Lillie Cox, Helen McCarthy, Florence Smith, Alta Porter, Florence Gregory, Lulu Stoddard, Ethel Winters, Clara Knudson, Jessie Dudley, Irene Welch, Agnes Smith, Alice McPherson, Myrtle Winters, Wilfred Davison, and Inez Davison.

Had the consolidation of the two phone systems been accomplished many of the young ladies would have lost their positions and they are accordingly very grateful to Mr. Valentine. The latter was taken entirely unawares by the manifestation of good will and it was some moments before he sufficiently recovered from his surprise to express his deep appreciation of the gift.

GAY GRAY-HAIRED GALLANT AROUSED GRAVE SUSPICIONS

Ancient Keeper of Assignment With Sweetheart Arrested and Questioned.

A gay Lothario, old enough to know better, was taken in charge by Officer Morrissey last night on complaint of residents in the vicinity of Dodge street and the high school, who thought the lothario tallied to the description of a "Jack the Peepster," who has been making that corner his headquarters. When questioned, the prisoner denied any posing pretentious and asserted that he had been keeping a "date" with his sweetheart, which, considering his age, was rather a giddy thing to do. He was released.

Special Permits: Marriage licenses and special permits were issued yesterday to two out-of-town couples who were immediately married. They were, Hulda Envo and Ben Roder, both of Chicago, and Lawroette E. Newdrow of Chicago and Homer E. Elderman of Oregon, Ill.

All Endeavorers and their friends are urged to be present. The meeting will open with a song service led by the orchestra, a $2.00 picnic. Come, on time, and bring someone with you.

Welcome Home: A small party of the friends of Miss Della Spaulding, who recently returned from Ill. Wis., gathered at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Spaulding, to express their pleasure at her return. Light refreshments were served and those present enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Among the guests were: Mrs. George Scarell, Miss Iva Spaulding, Miss Clara Scarell, Miss Lottie Jacobson and Miss Ruth and Miss Marie Scarell.

OBITUARY.

Samuel Treck.

Yesterday afternoon at half past three Samuel Treck passed away at his home, 314 Galena street. The deceased was eighty years of age and leaves to mourn his loss a widow and two children, Alice Clough and Cassius Treck, both of this city. The funeral will be held tomorrow at ten o'clock from the home, Rev. J. C. Hagen officiating, and the remains will be taken to Edgerton for burial.

Thelma Augur Brown.

The funeral of Thelma Augur Brown was held this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, 107 North Main street, and at three o'clock from the Emerald Grove Congregational church. Rev. W. E. Davidson of Emerald Grove conducted the services. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Interment was made in Emerald Grove cemetery.

GEORGE EDWARDS (RUBE) WADDELL.

It's back to the minors for Rube Waddell. The most eccentric pitcher in the game today and likewise the greatest southpaw the game has ever known is going back, and the hope is that Louisville of the American association will get him. The Rube has been playing hot now Jimmy McElear, maker of foxy trades, is about certain that Waddell, who has been rapped unmercifully this season is about through in the big leagues.

His terms of service has extended over a period of 12 years. Stories of his performances during that time are numerous, including the relation of the tale of how he pulled in his outfield and then got to work and fanned the opposition batters in order.

For years Condie Mack handled him and had George Edwards, which is the Rube's legal cognomen, at the height of his power. With him he won the American league pennant in 1902 and 1905. But then Waddell became unmanageable. There was no telling whether he would ever be on hand to work, and Mack let him go to St.

Louis before the opening of the 1908 season. Asking for waivers will not bring a holdup by any major league club and Waddell will go back to where he started his major league career when Louisville was in the National league.

BORT, BAILEY & COMPANY

SPECIAL SEMI-ANNUAL SALE OF

American Wash Fabrics

We have had shipped to us direct from the mill agents 12 cases, 24,000 yards, of their new Fall style of Prints. They are opened and will be placed

On Sale Monday Morning, September 13.

This is one of the most beautiful lines of prints ever opened in the city. The colors, while soft and beautiful, stand the test of washing with remarkable endurance. There are styles for school wear, styles for morning wear, styles for house dresses, styles for kimonos. There is a strong resemblance to the finer mercerized silken textures. A corps of high salaried artists are employed to produce perfection in style and neatness in design. Stylish model costumes are on exhibition in our windows and wash goods department. Now is the time; no longer wait; buy your prints NOW.

Keeping pace with 20th century progress has developed to an astonishing degree the manufacture of the staple fabric known in olden days as "Calico," today, notwithstanding the necessary limits established by the low prices at which these fabrics are offered, in pattern and finish.

They are pretty and fadeless too—The variety of styles is immense—the patterns are all new and beautiful. The agents, anxious to make a fine showing have sent us the very cream of the mills production. They with our co-operation are placing before the ladies of Janesville the choicest patterns in American prints.

The Butterick Publishing Co. and American Printing Co. join hands in marketing this favorite American wash fabric. In making house dresses, school dresses, wrappers, sacques, Princess or jumper dresses you'll find the Butterick Patterns on hand exactly adapted to use in making up the wash fabrics.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, nervousness, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in more or less succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Janesville.

Mrs. Minnie Mohr, 114 N. Academy St., Janesville, Wis., says: "About two years ago I suffered from an attack of kidney trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I procured a supply at the People's Drug Co. and after taking them a short time was cured. I have had no recurrence of kidney complaint since. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results and from these experiences I know them to be a reliable kidney remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth bound. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Report of the Discovery of the North Pole, by Robert E. Peary, Commander U. S. N.—Part II. Copyrighted 1909 by the New York Times Company.

DENIES COOK REACHED THE POLE

Battle Harbor, Labrador (via Marconi wireless, Cape Ray, N. F.), Sept. 10.—Do not trouble about Cook's story, or attempt to explain any discrepancies in his statements. The affair will settle itself.

He has not been at the pole on April 21, 1908, or at any other time. He has simply handed the public a gold brick.

These statements are made advisedly, and I have proof of them. When he makes a full statement of his journey over his signature to some geographical society, or other reputable body, if that statement contains the claim that he has reached the pole, I shall be in a position to furnish material that may prove distinctly interesting reading for the public.

ROBERT E. PEARY.

Battle Harbor, Labrador (via Marconi wireless, Cape Ray, N. F.), Sept. 10.—With the disappearance of Bartlett, I turned to the problem before me. This was that for which I had worked for 32 years; for which I had lived the simple life; for which I had conserved all my energy on the upward trip; for which I had trained myself as for a race, crushing down every worry about success.

In spite of my years, I felt in trim for the demands of the coming days and eager to be on the trail.

As for my party, my equipment, and my supplies, I was in shape beyond my most sanguine dreams of earliest years.

My party might be regarded as an ideal, which had now come to realization—a loyal and responsive to my will as the fingers of my right hand.

PRAISES HIS MEN.

Four of them possess the technique of dogs, sledges, ice, and cold—as their heritage. Two of them, Hansen and Ootah, were my companions to the farthest point three years before. Two others, Egingwak and Sigloo, were in Clark's division, which had such a narrow escape at that time, and now were willing to go anywhere with my immediate party, and willing to risk themselves again in any supporting party.

The fifth was a young man who had never served before in any expedition, but who was, if possible, even more willing and eager than the others for the princely gifts—a boat, a rifle, a shotgun, ammunition, knives, etc., which I had promised to each of them who reached the pole with me; for he knew that these riches would enable him to wrest from a stubborn father the girl whose image filled his hot young heart.

I was with them, and gave no thought for the morrow, sure that whatever happened I should somehow get them back to land. But I dealt with the party equally. I recognized that all its impetus centered in me, and that whatever pace I set it would make good. If anyone was played out, I would stop for a short time.

I had no fault to find with the conditions. My dogs were the best, the pick of 122 with which we left Columbia. Almost all were powerful males, hard as nails, in good flesh, but without a superfluous ounce, without a suspicion of fat anywhere; and what was better yet, they were all in good spirits.

My sledges, now that the repairs were completed, were in good condition. My supplies were ample for 40 days, and, with the reserve represented by the dogs themselves, could be made to last 50.

PREPARING FOR FINAL DASH.

Packing back and forth in the ice of the pressure ridge where the igloos were built, while my men got their loads ready for the next marches, I settled on my program. I decided I should strain every nerve to make five marches of 16 miles each, crowding these marches in such a way as to bring us to the end of the fifth long enough before noon to permit the immediate taking of an observation for latitude.

Weather and leads permitting, I believed I could do this. If my proposed distances were cut down by any chance I had two means in reserve for making up the deficit:

First—To make the last march a forced one, stopping to make tea and feed the dogs, but not to sleep.

Second—At the end of the fifth march to make a forced march with a light sledge, a double team of dogs, and one or two of the party, leaving the rest in camp.

FEARFUL OF ARCTIC GALES.

Underlying all these calculations was a recognition of the ever present neighborhood of open leads and impassable water, and the knowledge that a 24-hour gale would knock all my plans into a cocked hat, and even put us in imminent peril.

At a little after midnight of April 1, after a few hours of sound sleep, I left the trail, leaving the others to break up camp and follow.

As I climbed the pressure ridge back of our igloos I set another hole in my belt, the third since I started. Every man and dog of us was lean and flat belled as a board and as hard.

MORNING OF FINAL START.

It was a fine morning. The wind of the last two days had subsided, and the going was the best and most equable of any I had had yet. The floors were large and old, hard and clear, and were surrounded by pressure ridges, some of which were almost stupendous.

The biggest of them, however, were easily negotiated, either through some crevice or up some huge brink. I set a good pace for about ten hours. Twenty-five miles took me well beyond the eighty-eighth parallel.

While I was building my igloo a long lead formed by the east and southwest of us at a distance of a few miles.

BUT FEW HANDICAPS.

A few hours' sleep and we were on the trail again. As the going was now practically horizontal, we were unhampered and could travel as long as we pleased and sleep as little as we wished.

The weather was fine and the going like that of the previous day, except at the beginning, when plexuses were required. This and a brief stop at another lead cut down our distance, but we had made 20 miles in ten hours and were half way to the eighty-ninth parallel.

LEVEL ICE SURFACE.

Again there was a few hours' sleep and we hit the trail before midnight. The weather and going were even better. The surface, except as interrupted by infrequent ridges, was as level as the glacial fringe from Hecla to Columbia, and harder.

We marched something over ten hours, the dogs being often on the trot, and made 20 miles. Near the end of the march we rushed across a lead 100 yards wide, which buckled under our sledges and finally broke as the last sledge left it.

WE STOPPED IN SIGHT OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH PARALLEL.

We stopped in sight of the eighty-ninth parallel in a temperature of 40 degrees below. Again a scant sleep and we were on our way once more and across the eighty-ninth parallel.

This march duplicated the previous one as to weather and going. The last few hours it was on young ice and occasionally the dogs were galloping.

We made twenty-five miles or more, the air, the sky, and the bitter wind burning the face till it cracked. It was like the great interior ice cap of Greenland. Even the natives complained of the bitter air. It was as keen as frozen steel.

A LITTLE LONGER SLEEP THAN THE PREVIOUS ONE HAD TO BE TAKEN HERE, AS WE WERE ALL IN NEED OF IT. THEN ON AGAIN.

Up to this time, with each successive march, our fear of an impassable lead had increased. At every inequality of the ice I found myself hurrying breathlessly forward, fearing that it marked a lead, and when I arrived at the summit would catch my breath with relief—only to find myself hurrying on in the same way at the next one.

BUT ON THIS MARCH, BY SOME STRANGE SHIFT OF FEELING, THIS FEAR FELL FROM ME COMPLETELY. THE WEATHER WAS THICK, BUT IT GAVE ME NO UNEASINESS.

Before I turned I took an observation which indicated our position as 89 degrees 25 minutes.

A dense, lifeless pall hung overhead. The horizon was black and the light beneath was a ghastly, chalky

WHITE, WITH A FEW SPRINKLING CONTRAST TO THE GLIMMERING, SUNKEN FIELDS OF IT OVER WHICH WE HAD BEEN TRAVELING FOR THE PREVIOUS FOUR DAYS.

MERCURY GOES UP.

The going was even better, and there was scarcely any snow on the hard, granular, last summer's surface of the old floor, dotted with the saprophyte ice of the previous summer's lakes.

A rise in temperature to 15 degrees below reduced the friction of the sledges and gave the dogs the appearance of having caught the spirits of the party. The more sprightly ones, as they went along with tightly curled tails, frequently tossed their heads, with short, sharp barks and yelps.

In 12 hours we had made 40 miles. There was no sign of a lead in the march.

THE POLE AT LAST.

I had now made my five marches, and was in time for a hasty noon observation through a temporary break in the clouds, which indicated our position as 89.57. I quote an entry from my journal some hours later:

The pole at last. The prize of three centuries, my dream and goal for 20 years, mine at last. I cannot bring myself to realize it.

It all seems so simple and commonplace. As Bartlett said when turning back, when speaking of his being in these exclusive regions, which no mortal has ever penetrated before: "It is just like every day."

OF COURSE I HAD MY SENSATIONS THAT MADE SLEEP IMPOSSIBLE FOR HOURS, DESPITE MY UTTER FATIGUE—THE SENSATIONS OF A LIFETIME; BUT I HAVE NO ROOM FOR THEM HERE.

The first 30 hours at the pole were spent in taking observations; in going some eight miles to the right of it; in taking photographs, planting my flags, depositing my records, studying the horizon with my telescope for a possible land, and searching for a practicable place to make a sounding.

TEMPERATURE AT TOP OF WORLD

Ten hours after our arrival the clouds cleared before a light breeze from our left and from that time until our departure in the afternoon of April 7 the weather was cloudless and lawless.

The minimum temperature during the 30 hours was 23 below, the maximum 12.

We had reached the goal, but the return was still before us. It was essential that we reach the land before the next spring tide, and we must strain every nerve to do this.

I had a brief talk with my men. From now on it was to be a big travel, little sleep and a hustle every minute.

We would try, I told them, to double march on the return—that is, to start and cover one of our northward marches, make tea and eat our luncheon in the igloos, then cover another march, eat and sleep a few hours, and repeat this daily.

FAST TIME ON RETURN.

As a matter of fact, we nearly did this, covering regularly on our return journey five outward marches in three return marches.

Just as long as we could hold the trail we could double our speed, and we need waste no time in building new igloos every day, so that the time we gained on the return lessened the chances of a gale destroying the track.

Just above the eighty-seventh parallel was a region some fifty miles wide which caused me considerable uneasiness. Twelve hours of strong easterly, westerly, or northerly wind would make this region an open sea.

In the afternoon of the 7th we started on our return, having double fed the dogs, repaired the sledges for the last time, and discarded all our spare clothing to lighten the loads.

NO BOTTOM TO SEA.

Five miles from the pole a narrow crack filled with recent ice, through which we were able to work a hole with a plexus, enabled me to make a sounding. All my wire, 1,500 fathoms, was sent down, but there was no bottom.

In pulling up the wire parted a few fathoms from the surface and lead and wire went to the bottom. "Off went real and handle, lightening the sledges still further. We had no more use for them now."

Three marches brought us back to the igloos where the captain turned back. The last march was in the wild sweep of a northerly gale, with drifting snow and the ice rocking under us as we dashed over it.

ICE FAVORED THEM.

South of where Marvin had turned back we came to where his party had built several igloos while delayed by open leads. Still further south we found where the captain had been held up by an open lead and obliged to camp.

FORTUNATELY THE MOVEMENT OF THESE LEADS WAS SIMPLY OPEN AND SHUT, AND IT TOOK CONSIDERABLE WATER MOTION TO FAULT THE TRAIL SERIOUSLY.

While the captain, Marvin, and so I found later, Borup, had been delayed by open leads, we seemed to bear a charm and with no single lead were we delayed more than a couple of hours. Sometimes the ice was fast and firm enough to carry us across; sometimes a short detour, sometimes a brief halt for the lead to close, sometimes an improvised ferry on an ice cake, kept the trail without difficulty down to the tenth outward march.

MEET SLIGHT HANDICAP.

Igloos there disappeared completely and the entire region was unrecognizable. Where on the outward journey had been narrow cracks, there were now broad leads, one of them over five miles in width, caught over with young ice.

Here again fortune favored us, and no pronounced movement of the ice having taken place since the captain passed, we had his trail to follow. We picked up the old trail again north of the seventh igloo, followed it beyond the fifth, and at the big lead lost it finally.

JOY OF THE ESKIMOS.

From here we followed the captain's trail, and on April 25, our sledges passed up the vertical edge of the glacier fringe, a little west of Cape Columbia.

When the last sledge came up I thought my Eskimos had gone crazy. They yelled and called and danced themselves helpless. As Ootah sat down on his sledge he remarked, in Eskimo:

"The devil is asleep or having trouble with his wife, or we never should have come back so easily."

A few hours later we arrived at Crano City, under the bluff of Cape Columbia, and after putting four pounds of pemmican into each of the faithful dogs to keep them quiet, we had, at last, our chance to sleep.

AT CAPE COLUMBIA.

Never shall I forget that sleep at Cape Columbia. It was sleep, sleep, then turn over, and sleep again. We slept gloriously, with never a thought of the morrow or of having to walk and, too, with no thought that there was to be never a night more of blinding headache.

Cold water to a parched throat is nothing compared with sleep to a numbed, fatigued brain and body.

Two days we spent here in sleeping and drying our clothes. Then for the ship. Our dogs, like ourselves, had not been hungry when we arrived, but simply lifeless with fatigue. They were different animals now, and the better ones among them slept on with tightly curled tails and uplifted heads and their hind legs trailing the snow with plaintive regularity.

HEARS OF MARVIN'S DEATH.

We reached Hecla in one march and the Roosevelt in another. When we got to the Roosevelt I was staggered by the news of the fatal mishap to Marvin. He had either been less cautious or less fortunate than the rest of us, and his death emphasized the risk to which we all had been subjected, for there was not one of us but had been in the sledge at some time during the journey.

The big lead, cheated of its prey three years before, had at last gained its human victim.

The rest can be told quickly. McMillan and Borup had started for the Greenland coast to deposit caches for me. Before I arrived a flying Eskimo courier from me overtook them with instructions that the caches were no longer needed and they were to concentrate their energies on the ideal observations, etc., at Cape Morris K. Jesup and north from there.

ROOSEVELT STARTS HOMEWARD.

These instructions were carried out and after their return in the latter part of May McMillan made some further tidal observations at other points. The supplies remaining at the various caches were brought in and on July 18 the Roosevelt left its winter quarters and was driven out into the channel back of Cape Nlon.

It fought its way south in the center of the channel and passed Cape Sabine on August 8, or 29 days earlier than in 1908, and 32 days earlier than the British expedition in 1876.

We picked up Whitney and his party and stores at Etah. We killed and stored walrus for my Eskimos, whom I landed at their homes. We met the Joakim off Saunders Island and took over its coal and cleared from Cape York on August 25, one month earlier than in 1906.

FIRST MESSAGE TO WORLD.

On September 5 we arrived at Indian Harbor, whence the message, "Stars and stripes hoisted to north pole," was sent vibrating southward through the crisp Labrador air.

The culmination of long experience, a thorough knowledge of the conditions of the problem gained in the last expedition—these, together with a new type of sledge which reduced the work of both dogs and driver, and a new type of camp cooler which added to the comfort and increased the hours of sleep of the members of the party, combined to make the present expedition an agreeable improvement upon the last in respect to the rapidity and effectiveness of its work and the lessened discomfort and strain upon the members of the party.

PRAISES ALL AIDS.

As to the personnel, I have again been particularly fortunate. Capt. Bartlett is just Bartlett—tireless, sleepless, enthusiastic, whether on the bridge or in the crew's nest or at the head of a sledge division in the field.

Dr. Goodell, the surgeon of the expedition, not only looked after its health and his own specialty of microscopes but took his full share of the field work of the expedition as well, and was always ready for any work.

Prof. Marvin and McMillan have secured a mass of scientific data, having made all the tidal and most of the field work, and their services were invaluable in every way.

CREW OF ROOSEVELT.

Borup not only made the record as to the distance traveled during the journey, but to his assistance and his expert knowledge of photography is due what I believe to be the unequalled series of photographs taken by the expedition.

Hansen in the field and Percy as steward were the same as ever, invaluable in their respective lines.

Chief Engineer Wardwell, also of the last expedition, aided by his assistant, Scott, kept the machinery up to a high state of efficiency and had given the Roosevelt the force and power which enabled it to negotiate apparently impracticable ice.

Mr. Gushue, the mate, who was in charge of the Roosevelt during the absence of Capt. Bartlett and myself, and Boatswain Murphy, who was put in charge of the station at Etah for the relief of Cook, were both trustworthy and reliable men, and I count myself fortunate in having had them in my service.

The members of the crew and the firemen were a distinct improvement over those of our last expedition. Every one of them was willing and anxious to be of service in every possible way.

PEOPLE KNOW IT IS GOOD—

also they wouldn't use, as they do, two million bottles every year of Perry Davis' Painkiller. It will cure sprains, strains, colds, cramps. Take a bottle home today and have it ready for an emergency—35c. (the new size) or 50c. a bottle. Tell your druggist you want Perry Davis' Painkiller, the remedy which has been tested for 70 years.

SILENT WAY.

Conners, who was promoted to be born in the absence of Murphy, proved to be practically effective.

Barnes, seaman, and Wiseman and Joyce, firemen, not only assisted Marvin and McMillan in their tidal and meteorological observations on the Roosevelt, but Wiseman and Barnes went into the field with them on their trips to Cape Columbia, and Condon and Cody covered 1,000 miles hunting and sledging supplies.

PRESENTS TO ESKIMOS.

As for my faithful Eskimos, I have left them with ample supplies of dark, rich walrus meat and blubber for their winter, with currants, sugar, biscuits, guns, rifles, ammunition, knives, hatchets, traps, etc.

For the splendid four who stood beside me at the pole a boat and tent aside to require them for their energy and the hardship and toll they underwent to help their friend Peary to the north pole.

But all of this—the dearly bought years of experience, the magnificent strength of the Roosevelt, the splendid energy and enthusiasm of my party, the loyal faithfulness of my Eskimos—could have gone for naught but for the faithful necessities of war furnished so loyally by the members and friends of the Peary Arctic club.

AND IT IS NO DETRACTION FROM THE LIVING TO SAY THAT TO NO SINGLE INDIVIDUAL HAS THE RESULT BEEN MORE SIGNALLY DUE THAN TO MY FRIEND, THE LATE MORRIS K. JESUP, THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE CLUB.

Their assistance has enabled me to tell the last of the great earth stories, the story the world has been waiting to hear for 300 years—the story of the discovery of the north pole.

ROBERT E. PEARY.

THE END.

WILL SUPERVISE CITY CENSUS.

Taft Names Chiefs for Count in Chicago and Milwaukee.

Dover, Mass., Sept. 11.—A number of the big city census supervisors were announced by President Taft and the list of the higher officials of the thirteenth census is rapidly being completed. Only about 25 appointments remain to be definitely decided. Chicago, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and other large centers of population were included in the list made public last night. Among the appointments are: Illinois—Chicago and Cook county, Willard E. Hotchkiss; Kentucky—Louisville, Jonathan Duff Reed; Wisconsin—Milwaukee, O. J. Habbegger; Washington—Seattle, R. V. Hill.

MR. HOTCHKISS, WHO WILL HAVE CHARGE OF CHICAGO AND ALL OF COOK COUNTY, IS HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS AT NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY.

Mr. Habbegger at Milwaukee is a prominent business man, president of the Milwaukee Archeological society and a trustee of the Milwaukee public museum.

PROSPECTS FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

AT WISCONSIN UNIVERSITY ARE VERY BRIGHT.

SEVEN "VETS" TO RETURN

Promising Candidates for Open Positions—Play the Gophers Nov. 13
And Chicago Nov. 20.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 11.—The today's edition of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate football championship, with creditable showing of prowess in comparison with western opponents is the Wisconsin varsity gridiron team of 1933. The backers already are big with enthusiasm and determination in prospect of the season which opens here on Monday, September 20, two weeks from Monday, and expect to make this year of our Lord monumental in the athletic history of the cardinal university.

The season of scheduled games begins with what is looked upon as a preliminary or practice contest with the eleven of Lawrence college of Appleton, this state, being the only Wisconsin college team with which the Badger university athletes will contest this fall. This fact is immented by Professor C. P. Hutchins, director of athletics, for he had planned and fondly hoped to establish more unity of feeling among the several smaller Wisconsin institutions of learning and the university by playing a limited number of early-season football games with the teams representing these colleges. His expectation was that games could be had between the university candidates and such institutions as Beloit, Lawrence, Ripon colleges and perhaps Marquette university of Milwaukee, provided, however, that the Milwaukee team would be purged of the alleged professionals and non-student players that were said to make up this team for a number of years past. However, the plan was disabundantly laid on the shelf by the Wisconsin university faculty last spring, the epidemic of footballphobia having not yet been spent although there seemed to be some signs of general convalescence.

Indiana university comes to Madison on October 16, a week after the Lawrence game, bringing an intercollegiate championship contest that should be quite energetic, but which is not held in awe in this halfhearted
two weeks later, on October 30, Wisconsin journeys to Evanston to do battle with the Methodists of Northwestern university, the "dope" being for another Badger victory, but after that come the two big grueling engagements for which every preparation will be made and every nerve be strained. Two weeks after the Northwestern game the Badgers will fiercely entertain the Gophers. This date, November 13, is the point toward which the training and development of the Wisconsin eleven will be ultimately directed. It is the big game of the year. It is the annual struggle concerning which it is a tradition here that Wisconsin would rather defeat Minnesota than Chicago or any other team on the schedule. While Wisconsin and Minnesota are contending on Camp Randall here, Chicago will be in a tussle with Cornell university at Ithaca, New York, and on the following Saturday, November 20, the Badgers and the Maroons will wind up at Marshall Field, Chicago.
The fellows here would be pleased to have Wisconsin defeat Minnesota and have Chicago beat Cornell as the incidents of November 13, and then let Wisconsin get by Chicago on November 20. If possible, with the western championship and the Chicago-Cornell game as an avenue of comparison, through which an idea may be gained of the relative prowess of the eastern teams.

The Wisconsin coaching staff will be the same as last year. Head Coach Tom Barry, the old Brown university star, after practicing law here
most of the summer, is now on a visit in the east and is expected back at the end of the coming week. Dr.
Hutchins has been here nearly a month, corresponding with the candidates and otherwise rounding up material and making sure that the call for the first practice day will be met with the appearance of a big squad of candidates among whom it prayed some "birds" may show up to fill the few gaps left in the veteran team by commencement last June, by faculty displeasure and departures from the university. Dr. Charles Mc-Carthy, Wisconsin's great volunteer coach, is away on a trip to Japan with the Wisconsin basketball team, but will be on the ball job late in October and work with the boys until Minnesota and Chicago shall have been passed.

Seven strong members of the last year's eleven will be out for the team.
To be sure one, Frank Doyle, popular athlete and great player as tackle, is afflicted with a thorn in his scholarship flesh, being a demerit mark, known here as a "condition."
However, he is already assured of an opportunity of taking a special examination to remove this disability and about his eligibility when the playing time comes there is practically no doubt.

For the other tackle position, Oscar Othoff of Milwaukee, the Wisconsin university senior, a strong man, champion swimmer, jumper and heavy of weight, as well as a reliable tackle on the 1932 eleven, will be the favorite with no chance of displacement this side of a broken limb.
So there are the tackle positions,
which have given football coaches so much distress, practically cinched before the first whistle has sounded.

Captain Jack Wilco is another fix-ture at his old stand, fullback. He is an all round athlete, shining on track and crew and basketball and baseball team, and he is said to be bigger and stronger than ever. Just ahead of Wilco, Edwin (Keeble) Moll will be stationed again as quarterback, with the punt and drop kick that has in former seasons earned his name to be familiar among the pla-kers. A year ago Moll won just recovery from an attack of rheumatism, and he never got into good condition throughout the season. He declares he's "right" this time and it is expected that his kicking and running and passing this season will place him among those famous few—

Kangaroo Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin, George Capron of Minnesota, Hirsch-berg, Eckersall and Steffen of Chicago.

If it were not for Moll's presence,
Sidney Anderson, who hails from a suburb of Chicago and who was a tower of strength on last year's Wisconsin freshman eleven, would lead the quarterback job, but to take the place left vacant by the graduation of Captain Rogers of last year's team. He also is a kicker, fleet of foot, and can handle the forward pass
at either the pushing or receiving end.
In this department much is expected of him in view of the absence from this year's squad of Rogers, Messner and Cunningham. At the other end again will be Jimmy Dean, the heroic Madison lad who acquitted himself with unimpaired credit last season.
The seventh veteran to be available this fall is Harry (Bud) Culver at halfback.

The main task, therefore, which confronts the Wisconsin coaches in the filling of four places, one each back and the center, is to acquiring line. Difficult positions, those, to be sure, but they should not prove so hard to supply in view of the quality of the available material.

Harry A. Arpin, of Grand Rapids, general utility man last year and strong contender with "Jumbo" Stelton for center rush, will in all probability snap back the ball for the Badgers. "Marty" Arpin is fondly
dubbed, is said to be the richest football player in this camp, but he is a man of might for all that, having
put on his gloves in the lumbering
woods up in Wood county.

For the other halfback place there will be a free-for-all race, with Archie Richards, Wisconsin's champion 100-yard and 220-yard sprinter, and strong contender with "Jumbo" Stelton for center rush, will in all probability snap back the ball for the Badgers. "Marty" Arpin is fondly
dubbed, is said to be the richest football player in this camp, but he is a man of might for all that, having
put on his gloves in the lumbering
woods up in Wood county.

The matter of filling the guard positions, where Messner and Drentzer held forth last year, causes well informed Wisconsin followers to chuckle and be complacent, for it's a dollar to the center of a doughnut that these jobs will be held by Alfred Bauer of Madison and William P.
Macmillan of Ashland, athletic champions and gladiators of last year's freshman and roving crew. They played the tackle places on the freshman eleven in a manner to give the regulars full stomachs. In many a sturdy scrimmage, and should capably administer the functions of guards on the 1933 variety. Of course there are other formidable candidates, but the team as outlined here is the one best bet of the Wisconsin football situation. Among the others are "Pete" Murphy, substitute lineman last year; L. W. Johnson, former sub-quarterback; Emanuel of Eau Claire, and Zander of Milwaukee, guards on last year's freshman eleven; and Schaeffer, Kaufmann and Van Auklin, line material; as well as Lowman, Tueddas, Stoppach, Jacobson and Noyes for the backfield race.

Director Hutchins is optimistic, but qualifies his predictions with the "if"
of faculty favor. The candidates this year, however, are far more fortunate scholarship than was the squad a year ago, and the prospects are genuinely bright.

GOLF TEAM TO PLAY AT CHICAGO FRIDAY

Shinnissippi Club Will Send Team of Eight to Compete With Ridge Club Golfers.

Plans are now being made by the Shinnissippi Golf Club of this city to send a team of eight, or nine men to

SENSE ABOUT FOOD

Facts About Food Worth Knowing.

It is a serious question sometimes to know just to eat when a person's stomach is out of order and most foods cause trouble.
Grape-Nuts food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to any one interested in foods.

A Torre Haute woman writes: "I had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since an attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food, and then suffer such agony with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything.
I was used to try Grape-Nuts and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it at any time and feel nourished and satisfied, dyspepsia is a thing of the past,
and I am now strong and well.
"My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts. He was very weak and sickly in the spring. Could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to leave off ordinary food and use Grape-Nuts. It was positively surprising to see the change in him. He has none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts.

"Our boy thinks he cannot eat a meal without Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teacher and other scholars comment on it.
I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason."
It contains the phosphate of potash
from wheat and barley which combines with aluminum to make the gray matter to daily refill the brain and nervous centres.

It is a pity that people do not know what to feed their children. There are many mothers who give their children almost any kind of food and when they become sick begin to pour the medicine down them. The real way is to stick to proper food and be healthy and get along without medicine and expense.

will undoubtedly be accepted. The match will probably be played on a private course in one of the south Chicago suburbs. The local players will be somewhat handicapped if reports in regard to the links are reliable as it is said that they are very flat and smooth with a number of treacherous

The regular Friday bridge party held yesterday afternoon at the Country Club House proved to be one of the largest of the season. Miss Mary Merrill was first honors and Mrs. E.
F. Carpenter was awarded the con-solator prize. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. George Mason and Mrs. Leonard of Chicago.

Scores for the qualifying round for the Olin & Olson cup must be submitted to Chester Morse of the games committee by tomorrow evening. The first round of play in the handicap match will take place on Tuesday.

YESTERDAY RECORD DAY AT MONROE FAIR

Crowd Attending Was As Large As Any of Last Year—Janesville Beat Monroe Baseball Team.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 11.—There was an attendance of at least 14,000 at the Green county fair yesterday and the fair was favored with another record day today. Despite the rain on the opening day the receipts fell little short of the average first day and the receipts yesterday were nearly one-third more than last year, when the biggest showing in the history of the fair was made. These are not padding estimates, but figures supported by the records.

The Janesville and Monroe baseball teams played a long, tough game yesterday that was witnessed by about 4,000 people. Twelve innings were played before the winning run was made, the score being 5 to 4. Miller, the Janesville third baseman, stole three bases in making the winning run.

Knight of Strathmore, the Monroe
three-year-old, was driven an exhibition head and broke the Wisconsin mile record for three-year-olds on a half mile track, going the mile in 2:14, which is three and a quarter seconds faster than the state mile record. The track was a little heavy because of yesterday's rain. The colt will be driven out today for the world's mile record. The horse holds the world's half mile record.

State Treasurer A. H. Dahl addressed the old soldiers' gathering which was held yesterday in connection with the homecoming's reunion.
E. C. Adams of Superior, Neb.; B. M.
Frees of Chicago; and B. B. Bowell, of Madison, S. D., were other speakers.

Thomas Hess, who has been making plans for the opening of a blacksmith and wagon shop, showed an unbalanced mind when he began to talk of a four-story cement block building and a force of forty blacksmiths, and was adjudged insane after an examination in the court house. He was committed to the Mendoota hospital.

Mrs. J. B. Galusha is home from Wayne, Neb., where she was called by the illness of her sister, Mrs. Lucy Miller. Mrs. Miller died last Sunday.
Mrs. A. P. Burnham of Janesville is among the homecomers. Two hundred and fifty homecomers registered at the tent yesterday.

AT THE PLAY HOUSESNight With Great Classics.

"Request night" with D'Urban's band, brought forth quite the finest concert of the entire series last evening and the largest audience of the week was on hand to appreciate and applaud the program opened with the words and brass instruments playing hide and seek in Liszt's "Hun-darian Rhapsody No. 2." Followed a magnificent rendition of the stirring Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Paderewski's celebrated minu-ette was the next event on the program and it was succeeded by a repetition of the magnificent Grand Trio from Verdi's "Aida" which had delighted all hearers the previous evening. After that came the haunting melody of the wanderers' love diet from Verdi's
"La Traviata" and the stirring sextet from Donizetti's "Lucia," with the following soloists in the foreground: Dr.
Domini, trumpet; Dr. Natus, conductor; Muzil, euphonium; Adornato, alto; Legnani, tenor; and Lussan-dr, trombone. Miss Maude Brace sang just before the concluding number of the first portion of the program and was enthusiastically cheered. "Il Trovatore" was the first number following the intermission. Then the stage was darkened for one of the most impressive offerings of the evening—Chopin's great Funeral March. A selection from Alkan's "La Paloma," another solo by Miss Brace, Balade's organ offertory, and "The Star Spangled Banner" with musicians and audience standing closed the concert.

This evening's concert has been set aside for popular music and the program is certain to have a wide appeal.
Tomorrow afternoon, Dr. Natus and Miss Lillian Berry of Chicago, soli-st with Brooks' band, for three seasons, will be the special attraction.
She is said to be one of the best concert and oratorio sopranos in the United States and a woman of rare beauty and personal charm. Miss Maude Brace, whose work has met with such general favor, will also sing several selections.

UNDERFEED FURNACE

The Underfeed furnace will get as much heat out of a ton of the very cheapest fuel as can be obtained from a ton of the costliest anthracite. The Under-feed enables you to

Save One-Half to Two Thirds

on coal bill. The reason is plain. In an Underfeed the fuel is fed from underneath and the fire for the coal is consumed all the time and gas is burned. In the Underfeed there is no waste caused by smoke and gases escaping up the chimney. I would like to tell you more about this furnace and show you what others think of it. It is a revolution in furnace building and is very successful.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is too likely to be fatal to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo,

MRS. E. HALL

ILLUSTRATION BY SARAH CINECA

"I don't think I ever did, either, but there might be a fair story about that, mightn't there?" Margaret nodded, with an expression of disinterested interest, and he went on: "Well, it describes Miss Barrack to a T. Yes, that's what I call her. She's put 'Barak' on her business card, whatever that means in a Christian language; but when I found out it was a girl, I christened her Miss Barrack. People have to have names of some kind if you're going to talk about them. But that's a digression. Pardon me. You'd like a description of the young person. I'm just thinking."

"How did you find out she was a girl?" Margaret asked, and her tone was suddenly hard.

"It was a question of form, you see," he said awkwardly.

"Form? Formality? I don't understand." Margaret was really puzzled.

"No, no!" Mr. Van Torp was actually blushing. "I mean his form—or her form."

"Oh, her figure? You merely guessed it was a girl in boy's clothes?"

"Certainly. Yes. Only, you see, he had a kind of fit—the boy did—and I thought he was going to faint, so I picked him up and carried him to a sofa, and—well, you understand, Miss Donna. I know I hadn't got a boy in my arms, that's all."

"I should think so!" asserted the Englishwoman. "I'm sure I should! When you found out she was a girl, how did she strike you?"

"Very attractive, I should say; very attractive," he repeated with more emphasis. "People who admire brunettes must think her quite fascinating. She has really extraordinary eyes, to begin with, those long, lustrous eyes, you know, that can look so far to the right and left through their eyelashes. Do you know what I mean?"

"Perfectly. You make it very clear. Go on, please."

"Her eyes—yes." Mr. Van Torp appeared to be thinking again. "Well, there was her complexion, too. It's a streaker for a dark girl. Ever been in a first-class dairy? Do you know the color of Alderney cream when it's ready to be skimmed? Her complexion's just like that, and when she's angry, it's as if you squeezed the juice of about one red currant into the whole pan of cream. Not more than one, I should think. See what I mean?"

"Yes. She must be awfully pretty. Tell me more. His she nice hair? Even teeth?"

"I should think she had!" answered Mr. Van Torp, with even more enthusiasm than he had shown yet. "They're as small and even and white as if somebody had gone to work and carved them all around half a new billiard ball, not separate, you understand, but all in one piece. Very pretty mouth they make, with those rather broiled-melon-colored lips she has, and a little chin that points up, as if she could hold her own. She can, too. Her hair? Well, you see, she's cut it short, to be a boy, but it's as thick as a beaver's fur, I should say, and pretty black. It's a silky kind of hair, that looks alive. You know what I mean, I dare say. Some brunettes' hair looks coarse and dusky, like horsehair, but hers isn't that kind, and it makes a sort of reflection in the sun, the way a young raven's wing-feathers do, if you understand."

"You're describing a raving beauty. It seems to me."

"Oh, no," said the American innocently. "Now if our friend Griggs, the novelist were here, he'd find all the right words and things, but I can only tell you just what I saw."

"You tell it unemotionally well!" Margaret's face expressed anything but pleasure. "Is she tall?"

"It's hard to tell, in man's clothes. Three inches shorter than I am, anyway. I'm a middle-sized man, I suppose. I used to be five feet ten in my shoes. She may be five feet seven, not more."

"But that's tall for a woman."

"Is it?" Mr. Van Torp's tone expressed an innocent indifference.

"Yes. Has she nice hands?"

"I didn't notice her hands. Oh, yes, I remember!" he exclaimed, suddenly correcting himself. "I did notice them. She held up that ruby to the light and I happened to look at her fingers. Small, well-shaped fingers, tapering nicely, but with a sort of firm look about them that you don't often see in a woman's hands. You've got it, too."

"Have I?" Margaret looked down at her right hand. "But, of course, hers are smaller than mine," she said.

"Well, you see, orientals almost all have very small hands and feet—too small, I call them—little tiny feet like mine."

Margaret's own were well-shaped, but by no means small.

"The girl is in London, you say?" Her tone made a question of the statement.

"She was there two days ago, when I left. At least, she had been to see me that very morning. Almost as soon as she was gone I went out, and in the first shop I looked into I met Logotheti. It was Plinney's, the jeweler's, I remember, for I bought a collar stud. We came away together and walked some time, and he told me the Tartar girl's story. I asked him to dine to-day, but I was obliged to leave town suddenly, and so I had to put him off with a note. I dare say he's still in London."

"I dare say he is," Margaret repeated, and rising suddenly she went to the window.

Mr. Van Torp rose too, and thought of what he should say in taking his leave of her, for he felt that he had stayed long enough.

The prima donna was still looking out of the window when the door opened and her English maid appeared on the threshold. Margaret turned at the sound.

"What is it?" she asked quietly.

"There's Mr. Van Torp's man, ma'am," answered Potts. "He wants to speak to his master at once."

"You had better tell him to come up," Margaret answered. "You may just as well see him here without going all the way downstairs," she said, speaking to Van Torp.

"You're very kind, I'm sure," he replied; "but I think I'd better be going, anyway."

"No, don't go yet, please! There's something else I want to say. See your man here while I go and speak to Mrs. Rushmore. Send Mr. Van Torp's man up, Potts," she added, and left the room.

The American walked up and down alone for a few moments. Then the impressive Stump was ushered in by the maid, and the door was shut again.

"Well," inquired Mr. Van Torp. "Has anything happened?"

"Yes, sir," Stump answered. "They have turned us out of the house, sir, and our luggage. Is in the street. Where shall I have it taken, sir?"

"Oh, they've turned us out, have they? Why?"

"Well, sir, I'm afraid it's partly my fault, but there must be some misunderstanding, for I'm quite sure I didn't whistle in your room, sir."

"So am I, Stump. Quite so. Go on. What happened?"

"Well, sir, you hadn't been gone more than ten minutes when somebody knocked, and there was the landlord, if that's what he calls himself, and a strange German gentleman with him, who spoke English. Rather shabby-looking, sir, I thought him. He spoke most unconvincingly, and said I was driving him half crazy with my whistling. I said I hadn't whistled, and he said I had, and the landlord talked German at me, as it were. I said again I hadn't whistled, and he said I had, the shabby gentleman, I mean, speaking most unconvincingly, sir, I assure you. So when I saw that they doubted my word, I put them out and fastened the door, thinking this was what you would have ordered, sir, if you'd been there yourself, but I'm afraid I did wrong."

"No, Stump. You didn't do wrong."

"Thank you, sir."

"I suppose, though, that when you put them out they didn't exactly want to go, did they?"

"No, sir, but I had no trouble with them."

"Any heads broken?"

"No, sir, I was careful of that. I sent the landlord downstairs first, as he was a fat man and not likely to hurt himself, and the shabby gentleman went down on top of him quite comfortably, so he did not hurt himself either. I was very careful, sir, being in a foreign country."

"What happened next? They didn't come upstairs again and throw you out, I suppose."

"No, sir. They went and got two of these German policemen with swords, and broke into the room, and told me we must move at once. I didn't like to resist the police, sir, it's sometimes serious. The German gentleman wanted them to arrest me, so I offered to pay any fine there was for having been hasty, and we settled for two sovereigns, which I thought dear, sir, and I'd have gone to the police station rather than pay it. Only I knew you'd need my services in this heathen town, sir, I'm highly relieved to know that you approve of that, sir. But they said we must turn out directly, just the same, so I packed your things and got a porter, and he's standing over the luggage in the street, waiting for orders."

"Stump," said Mr. Van Torp, "I'd been whistling myself, before you came in, and the lunatic in the next room had already been fussing about it. It's my fault."

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir."

"And it will be my fault if we have to sleep in a cab to-night."

The door opened while he was speaking, and Margaret heard the last words as she entered the room.

"I'm sorry," she said. "I thought you had finished. I could not help hearing what you said about sleeping in a cab. That's nonsense, you know."

"Well," said Mr. Van Torp, "they've just turned us out of the one room we had because I whistled 'Parafal' out of tune."

"You didn't whistle it out of tune," Margaret answered, to Stump's great but well-concealed astonishment. "I know better. Please have your things brought here at once."

"Here?" repeated Mr. Van Torp, surprised in his turn.

"Yes," she answered, in a tone that forestalled contradiction. "If nothing else can be had you shall have this room. I can do without it."

"You're kindness itself, but I couldn't do that," said Mr. Van Torp. "Hiring our things to this hotel, anyway, Stump, and we'll see what happens."

"Yes, sir."

Stump disappeared at once, and his master turned to Margaret again.

"Nothing will induce me to put you to such inconvenience," he said, and his tone was quite as decided as hers had been.

She smiled.

"Nothing will induce me to let a friend of mine be driven from pillar to post for a lodging while I have plenty of room to spare!"

"You're very kind, but—"

"But the mouse may turn into a tiger if you contradict it," she said with a light laugh that thrilled him with delight. "Remember your description of the Tartar girl!"

"Well, then, I suppose the hyena will have to turn into a small woolly lamb if you tell him to," answered Mr. Torp.

"Yes," laughed Margaret. "Is a small, woolly lamb at once, please, a very small one!"

"Knee-high to a kitten; certainly," replied the millionaire, submissively.

"Very well, I'll take you with me to hear 'Parafal' to-morrow, if you obey. I've just asked Mrs. Rushmore if it makes any difference to her, and she has confessed that she would rather not go again, for it tires her dreadfully and gives her a headache. You shall have her seat. What is it? Don't you want to go with me?"

Mr. Van Torp's face had hardened till it looked like a mask, he stared firmly at the wall, and his lips were set tightly together. Margaret gazed at him in surprise while he spoke, and he spoke slowly, with evident effort, and in an odd voice.

"Excuse me, Miss Donna," he said, snatching his words out. "I'm so grateful that I can't speak, that's all. It'll be all right in a second."

A huge emotion had got hold of him. She saw the red flush rise suddenly above his collar, and then sink back before it reached his cheeks.

Margaret gazed at him in surprise while she might have counted ten.

and all at once he was very pale. But not a muscle of his face moved, not a line was drawn; only his sandy eyelashes quivered a little. His hands were thrust deep into the pockets of his jacket, but the fingers were motionless.

TOTS PERISH IN FLAMES

DESPITE CHILD HEROISM

Summer Home of Robert Walsh in Minnesota Scene of Thrilling Death Fight.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 11.—Despite the heroic efforts of their small brother and sister and their father, Constantine, Robert and John Walsh, aged nine months, four and five years, respectively, perished in fire which destroyed the summer home of Robert A. Walsh at White Bear lake.

William, another son, aged nine years, was terribly burned about the head, arms and chest in his heroic efforts to save his little brothers and sisters, six of whom were sleeping in the second story of the cottage.

Sarah, another daughter, was badly burned about the arms in her efforts to help the imprisoned babies on the second story. Mr. Walsh, the father, was also badly burned. He received his injuries from the explosion of a gasoline stove in the kitchen while he attempted to fill the reservoir, supposing that none of the burners was lighted. One, however, had been left burning, and when he poured the gasoline into the tank the gas caught fire.

The fire immediately spread throughout the frame structure, and it was a roaring furnace in a few moments.

Six of the children, including those dead, were sleeping on the second floor and were imprisoned by the flames. The rest of the family of 13 children and parents were downstairs.

William, who is now in St. Joseph's hospital, might have escaped without injury, had he not remained to assist his less fortunate brothers and sisters. He was finally compelled to jump from a second story window.

Hurt, Mich., Sept. 11.—Louis and John, the two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Morris of this place were burned to death in a fire in the barn back of the house. It is supposed that the children were playing with matches.

MEDALS FOR HEROIC TARS.

Rescuers of Fellow Shipmates Will Get Life-Saving Trophies.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Honorably displayed by two "jack tars," each of whom saved a fellow shipmate from drowning, gained due recognition from the secretary of the navy, when he recommended to Secretary McVeh of the treasury department that life-saving medals be awarded to Roy W. Akers, coxswain, U. S. S. Albany, and Thomas McDonald, gunner's mate, U. S. S. Virginia. Secretary Meyer personally commended Martin F. Curran, gunner's mate of the U. S. S. Montana, for gallantry in jumping overboard to rescue a shipmate.

Darrow is Seriously Ill.

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 11.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney, is seriously ill here.

Railways in Canada.

Out of 206 railway charters granted by the Canadian parliament in the 20 years ended 1908 only 28 have resulted in any construction, 86 have lapsed and the others have received extensions of time. Exclusive of the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk, Pacific and Canadian Northern, the charters granted called for 65,500 miles construction.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

MOURNING garb is not, or rather should not, be a matter of color. There are striking styles that are quite as vivid as striking colors.

And the woman who appears in a studied and striking costume—a hat frothing with plumes and a gown that is a creation of broadcloth and satin and net and the dressmaker's art—thinks that just because her effect is produced in black she is showing respect and grief for her dead, deculves no one else if she does herself.

Personally, I do not believe in wearing mourning at all. I believe that it is not kind or necessary to wear a garb that is destined to remind a world that has "troubled enough of its own" of your particular grief.

I believe that the finest way to really honor one's dead is by good deeds done in the memory of them. But if you do believe in showing your grief by your garb, don't let it be merely a mockery and a travesty.

Remember, that black is merely the color of mourning. Entire simplicity and lack of ostentation are the spirit that should stand behind the letter.

"And after I'd bought my shoes at $5.00, and paid $4.00 for them—they said they were marked from $5.50, but I don't half believe it. Well, what do you think?" gasped the little bargain hunter as she sang down on my piazza and undid her bundles for my edification. "What do you think? Just after I bought them I found some much nicer ones at M—'s for only $3.00, marked from $7.50. Now wasn't that exasperating?"

"Indeed, it was," I admitted. "Wasn't it too bad you should have seen them? How on earth did you happen to go into M—'s after you had bought the others?"

"Oh, my dear," she confessed, "I always do that. Of course, I didn't want anything at M—'s, I just wanted to see if I could have done any better."

Do you do that? Go out of your way to run the risk of indulging in vain regrets? A great many women do, and I really think it's one of the very silliest things my sex can be accused of.

And closely allied to this folly is the folly of pondering the pros and cons of a purchase after you have made it.

I know a woman who will buy a suit, pay for it, make her purchase, be young and full of vim, and then spend two or three days wondering if it was the wife's thing to do.

One must have a vast amount of energy to be willing to waste it in such a foolish way.

This is my advice about decisions both as to gowns and other things more important:—

Never omit a pro and con when you are deciding a thing.

But having once irrevocably decided, never allow the thought of a pro or con to enter your head.

Ruth Cameron

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette, September 11, 1869.—An Inebriated Young Man.—The boy, Henry, yesterday sentenced to three months in the jail for stealing was so inebriated at the time that he made threats of shooting him when he got out. That is decidedly naughty, besides being likely to involve him in serious trouble.

Milton College.—We learn that the fall term of this institution starts out with a large attendance. The first senior class of the college was organized this year. This result has been reached within two years after the opening of the institution as a college.

Already Arriving.—The brick for the Baptist church are already arriving and are being deposited upon the ground near the edifice. This looks like business.

Organization of the Soldier's Monument Association.—The adjourned meeting of the Rock County Soldier's Monument Association was held at the council room last evening. On motion Captain Geo. R. Peck was elected chairman and J. M. Kimball, secretary of the meeting. The committee on organization submitted a report recommending that the association organize under its present articles of association framed in accordance with the general statute law upon the subject, and in case it should hereafter be deemed expedient to have a special charter that one can be procured at the next session of the Legislature. On motion the report was adopted. After full discussion it was decided to proceed to the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year whereupon an election was had and the following gentlemen were chosen directors of the association: Hon. H. B. Harwood, Dr. J. W. St. John, J. A. Harwood, Hon. Alex. Graham, Hon. Joseph Spaulding, Dr. J. M. Evans, Hon. A. Waterman.

Death of John Clark.—Mr. John Clark, of the firm of Clark & Alden, expired this morning at his residence in this city, after a brief illness of about a week's duration. It was not generally known that he was sick at all, and the community was therefore greatly startled when the fact of his death became generally known. A resident of Janesville for many years, he has been identified with the business interests of the place, and at the time of his decease was part owner of the Farmer's Mill. He leaves an interesting family to mourn his sudden taking off. We learn that there was an insurance of $5,000 on his life.

Good Rules to Observe.

"When in haste, go slow; when excited, keep cool" are two fundamental rules by which most women who so frequently have occasion to be "on edge" and "all upset" can spare their nerves and, indirectly, their pocket-books. Impulsively letting their nerves and emotions give way before you have time to think is a habit that can only be controlled by a call on reason and common sense.

A Chump.

"He is an awful chump, isn't he?" "Yes, he bought a ticket in an automobile race and then built a garage before the drawing came off." "Well, what do you know about that? Was he disappointed when the drawing came off?" "Not so you could notice it; he won the auto."—Houston Post.

PANHANDLE OF TEXAS.

Amarillo is the metropolis. It is the business center. It is the wholesale center. It is the market center. It has a $500,000 packing plant. It is the money center. It has around it the best lands. The U. S. Land Company sell those lands.
It sells them to farmers. It sells them at the lowest prices. It guarantees the title. Rainfall is ample; crops are certain. Buy now, the value will double. Enquire for details of J. J. CUNNINGHAM, Hayes Bk.
